It has been observed during the past that the bulk of bills/ cheques are received at the treasuries on 31st of March and even after working hours. This provides little or no opportunity to the concerned Treasury officers to verify and scrutinize the bills / cheques which dilutes the rigour of scrutiny of bills posing avoidable risks. Further, such a practice has all along been objected by the Accountant General and has advised to avoid rush of expenditure on 31st of March.

In order to arrest this trend , it is enjoined upon all the Treasury Officers that they will not entertain any bill / cheque for payment at treasury received after working hours on 30th March. The Treasury Officers are advised to convey these instructions to the Drawing and Disbursing Officers (DDOs) operating upon their respective treasuries by way of prior advice / notice.

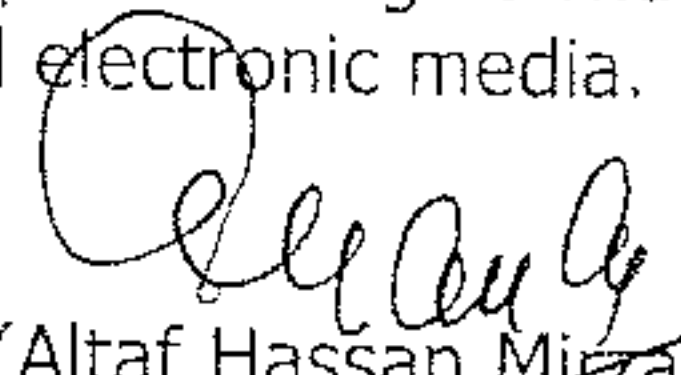

Any violation of these circular instructions shall attract disciplinary action.
